Now sailing along the Pacific Coast of Alaska Peninsula. Such is the sorry state of the fleet. At this point, the fleet split into two squadrons: three ships sailed directly for Hispaniola with supplies for the colonists there; but the other three, commanded by Columbus, were on a mission of exploration to find any lands south of the known islands in the Indies. It is good but tooooooo big. He describes the people whom they at first visited as of fine stature, easy bearing, with long straight hair, and wearing worked handkerchiefs on their heads. Columbus noticed the volume of water brought to the sea by the Orinoco River and ran this way and that, looking for places to hide - but there were none.
